

MAIN JUSTICE offers something new PERC

This is “premium embedded relevant content” – a “PERC” of membership in our dynamic new legal communities aimed at corporate counsel and elite law firms.

Help Us Build Our Community of Legal Experts

Does your firm have expertise in antitrust, corruption (FCPA), white collar, false claims, tax division, environment or another area of DOJ enforcement or review? Do you have an important analysis you’d like to showcase?

Law firm marketing has evolved. Today, in the age of social media, even top law firms can’t afford to stay outside the conversation. Lawyers are producing client alerts, webinars, white papers, blogs, and other important information – but how do you ensure your expert commentary is viewed by the all-important corporate counsel market?

Make Use of New Media. We are building exciting new legal communities around specific practice areas, curated by veteran journalists from such publications as the Wall Street Journal, Legal Times, American Lawyer, Roll Call and Congressional Quarterly. In addition to our insider reporting on DOJ enforcement trends, we’ll have a daily news feed relevant to specific practices, databases, documents, lively photographs, charts, staff directories and multi-media presentations.

Our goal is to build an essential destination where ideas can be shared, clients can be cultivated and reputations burnished.

- 1 You provide the content: news brief, client alert, video, white paper, article or other important material and an image.
- 2 We will lay out your contribution in a recognizable frame that looks and reads like content (not an ad) because it is content.
- 3 The reader will click through and be brought to the rest of your contribution on the Main Justice web pages or your law firm site.
